

Canon Understands the Way Your Customers Need to Work

Canon understands the way your customers need to work. Whether they have been working from home for a while or are new to working from home, we can help make their office space productive and easy to manage, with printers that really make a difference. imageCLASS Laser Printers are designed for home and small work spaces and offer many features that support print needs. With compact, durable designs and high quality bold, crisp output, your customers can rely on printing that can make any business document, or school assignment, shine.

Canon offers laser printers for workspaces that may just need light printing, to workspaces that require more robust printing. Choose from a variety of models that offer just print functionality and monochrome output, to models that offer print / scan / copy / fax functionality and bold color output, with diverse options in between. Some models feature expanded paper capacity using an optional paper cassette and select high capacity toner options to keep printing, longer, with limited interruptions.
